SPANISH REVOLT NIPPED IN BUD

Labor Manifesto Cause of Troubles—Immediate Danger Believed Over.

SENTIMENT FOR REPUBLIC

By the Associated Press.
MADRID (undated), by way of the Spanish frontier, via Paris, April 3.—Strong measures adopted by the Spanish government have checked a widespread agitation which assumed a distinct revolutionary aspect, though Premier Romanones in a formal statement declares the government refuses to treat the movement as revolutionary. The troubles of the past week were based on a manifesto, signed by twenty-six heads of labor organizations in all parts of the country, reciting the grievances of the workmen, attacking the present form of government and announcing that a general strike would be inaugurated. The demand for a change in the form of government was regarded as more serious than the threat of a strike, owing to the unrest which it reflected in Russia, and the government decided upon drastic measures.

Sixteen of the leaders who signed the manifesto were arrested, charged with seditious utterances, the labor exchanges in Madrid and the provisions of the constitution were suspended, and a royal decree was issued placing the country virtually under martial law by the suspension of the constitutional guarantees for free speech, speedy trial, etc. A rigid censorship also was inaugurated, preventing mention of the labor movement or reference to the character of the movement.

Immediate Danger Passes.

At the outset there was much apprehension of eventualities, but it is now believed the summary action of the government has postponed development of the movement if it has not entirely broken it up. Only a few scattered movements among the workmen themselves are in evidence, making it plain that there is no organization capable of coping with the strong military and police forces under government control.

Troops have been moved to Barcelona and the northern mining section, where a large labor element exists, but the only serious disorder reported was at Valladolid, where a clash between workmen and gendarmes led to the injury of three gendarmes.

Republican Feeling Stirred.

The capital remained calm, but expectation, apparently believing that the events in Russia might lead to something similar here. There is no doubt that the Russian movement and the republican regime in nearby Portugal have stirred feeling in Spain along similar lines. It is also asserted that German influence figured in stirring up discord so as to keep Spain fully occupied with her foreign affairs.

The manifesto which precipitated the troubles was the outgrowth of the high price and scarcity of food and coal, the suspension of exports in Spain's wine and olive oil trade because of the blockade and the general derangement of labor and industry as the result of the war.

King Stays in Capital.

King Alfonso remained in the capital throughout the agitation and is reported to have told his advisers that there would be no repetition of the experience of his cousin Nicholas in Russia, as he would go to the head of the troops if necessary required and share fate with them.

This report has had the effect of raising the king's prestige, making it appear that he would display firmness and courage in any emergency likely to arise. The action of the government, however, has virtually crushed the movement in its inception and the calm prevailing in most of the principal centers leads to the belief that disorder has ceased to be a probability for the present.

TROOPS FOR WHITE HOUSE.

Reported Regulars Are to Replace Police Force There.

A report was in circulation this afternoon that it is planned to replace the police guard at the White House with a guard composed of regular troops. About fifty policemen are on duty at present in and around the White house, and their release, it is said, would permit of better police protection to the foreign embassies and legations and the preservation of order generally.

The report could not be verified at the War Department, and its only basis appeared to be frequent conferences between Secretary Baker and Major of Police Pullman and the fact that the 1st Regiment of Engineers has been ordered to this city and that infantry troops are to be added to the cavalry and artillery troops at Fort Myer.

SENATOR WILLIAMS' VIEW OF U. S. PART IN WAR

Urges Every Assistance to Allies and Sending of Troops to Belgium.

Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, member of the foreign relations committee, has set forth clearly in an interview what he believed the United States should do in the present crisis. He urged that the following things be done:

Give the ships of all the allies free access to American ports, harbors and coaling stations.

Allow them free transit through the United States and over our railroads of Canadian and any other troops.

Take possession immediately of a sufficient number of German interned ships to equal the value of American shipping destroyed by Germany.

Provide for the immediate training of 1,000,000 men, to be followed within three months by a call for another 1,000,000.

Exempt from the provisions of the income tax law all incomes derived from investments in bonds issued by the allies.

Send a few thousand regulars to the European battle line with the Belgians, for its psychological effect.

Have the big ships of the navy take the offensive in the most effective way possible by joining the fleets of the allies in the scene of naval activities.

Go submarine chasing in that same zone from which the German government has "so insultingly" forbidden the United States to enter.

"Without any formal alliance of any description, we are compelled practically to co-operate and participate with others who are the enemies of our enemy," said Senator Williams. "We should realize the situation frankly and act upon it. There need be no treaty in words, but there must be conventions and agreements for our military and naval co-operation pendente bello."

Cuban Rebel Forces Surrender.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, April 3.—Col. Rafael Manduley, former governor of Oriente province and president of the liberal party of that province, has surrendered with 500 followers to the authorities at Guantanamo. The regular forces that were in arms against the government in the Guantanamo district also have surrendered and today an additional force of 200, including several officers, gave up their arms.

Detective Boyle obtained a warrant for Anderson's arrest, and is searching for him. Mrs. Anderson reported that her son assaulted her Sunday night while she was on Bunker Hill road near Barrett's farm, and robbed her of $65. She stated he was employed at the East Capitol car barn.
